

The Combat Systems Resources Division is comprised of Electronics Technicians and Information Systems Technicians who are directly responsible for maintaining the Ship's Local Area Network, on-off ship electronic mail, Navy Tactical Command Support System, all desktop computers for the ship, squadrons, and all embarked staffs. This hardworking team provides these vital services utilizing state of the art test equipment, hardware, software and pure dedication. This division believes in looking ahead towards the 21st century while providing the highest quality service today. Last but not least is the Information Systems Security Management team. This team is dedicated to the protection of all ship's information systems against viruses and unauthorized uses. This requires constant, aggressive detection and immediate removal of viruses on over 1,000 computer-based systems.
