

CAPTAIN DWIGHT L. MOODY

Captain Dwight L. Moody, present Commanding Officer of the Prairie, was born in Williamsburg, Kentucky. He entered the U.S. Naval Academy in June, 1931 and was commissioned with the class of 1935.

The advent of World War II found Captain Moody serving with Mine Squadron Two in the Pacific. He received the Navy Unit Citation for duty with that squadron during the Solomon Island Campaign.

Later in the war Captain Moody served as Commanding Officer of various ships and a tour of duty with the Bureau of Ordnance in Washington.

Prior to reporting for his present duty in October of 1959, Captain Moody served as Administrative Aid to the Chief of Naval Personnel.
