

Commanding Officer

2 April 1998 - 7 December 1999

COMMANDER EDWARD L. BROWNLEE
United States Navy

Commander Edward L. Brownlee, a native of Sandusky, Ohio, graduated from the United States Naval Academy in 1981.

His sea tours include assignments as Main Propulsion Assistant in USS JOHN L. HALL (FFG 32), Engineer Officer in USS AUBREY FITCH (FFG 34), and Damage Control Assistant in USS KITTY HAWK (CV 63), and Executive Officer in USS CAPE ST. GEORGE (CG71).

Ashore he has served as a Force Structure Analyst in the Joint Chief of Staff at the Pentagon in Washington D.C., and as Commander, U.S. Sixth Fleet's representative for flagship command, control, communications, computers and intelligence (C4I) upgrades to USS LASALLE (AGF3).

Overseas he served as Detachment Chief, U.S. Military Training Mission to Saudi Arabia, Detachment Jeddah, Kingdom of Saudi Arabia and as Senior Naval Advisor to Commander, Western Fleet, Royal Saudi Naval Forces. He received a Master of Science in Operations Research from the Naval Postgraduate School in Monterey, California in 1987.

Commander Brownlee's awards include the Defense Meritorious Service Medal (two awards), Meritorious Service Medal (2 awards), the Navy and Marine Corps Commendation Medal (two awards), the Navy and Marine Corps Achievement Medal (2 awards), and various other unit and service awards.